For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Connell Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious afflictions of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung disease peculiar to children, and consider it an absolute cure for a sore throat when it is most painful. When I am in the house," Mrs. L. E. Horner, of Mercer, N. J., City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stetson, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a medicine with a severe, severe affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Brockendre, Braintree, Mass., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, whenever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of with me. It is without a rival for the cure of bronchial difficulties."

CINCINNATI, Feb. 8.—Rev. Sam Jones is a phenomenally attractive man to Cincinnati, and when the thermometer was but a trifle striving to reach zero and under its efforts during the last blizzard, five thousand of them left their comfortable homes in houses, and, madd'up, went to Mississ. Hell in the teeth of the biting cold that would not let them go.

Rev. Sam does present only of his forcible characters, and earnest sermons, as follows:

"BROTHERS—Let us go prayerfully into this service. We will take for our text the expression of David, perhaps the strongest and most forcible in the whole Bible, in my way, and make haste and delayed not to keep my commandments."

THE EVENING BULLETIN

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1868.

ACCORDING to the Times-Democrat it was twenty-two degrees below zero at Flemingsburg Friday morning.

The Senate has passed a bill allowing criminals to testify in their own behalf. Other States have had a similar law for years.

G. L. Hopkins, of Owensboro, has his head off with a shotgun last week, because he was lazy and refused to work. If such a policy should be adopted by the fathers here, what a boom there would be in the funeral business!—Bourbon News.

Yes, and wouldn't the grave-diggers smile?

GEN. PRESTON says that Gen. S. B. Buckner will be nominated for Governor without opposition. That's about the understanding with the masses of the people, now. Ask one in the Geography class, who will be the next Governor of Kentucky, and as quick as lightning, he will say: "Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner."—Bourbon News.

We Echo Thy Sentiments, Bruce.

It takes money to pay debts, but it costs nothing to be polite and business-like. During the last month we have sent out statements to the amount of several hundred dollars to many good men, but the majority of them have treated the appeals as pearls cast before the swine. Some excuse on a postal would be manly, in case of a non-remittance.—[Bourbon News.]

LATE information received from Greenup up reports the work of securing the right of way for the river road progressing finely. Mr. Charles White and Colonel C. B. Chilie are meeting with much encouragement from the people of Greenup. Mr. White is thoroughly interested in this work, and to give emphasis to his zeal he made a rousing railroad speech at Greenup last Thursday night. He is working hard and earnestly for this road.

The tobacco dealers are actively at work buying the weed. Prices are low yet, but they are better than was for a time anticipated. We hear of sales as high as 9 cents crop around, and some talk of higher figures, but it takes an extra crop to get above 8 cents. There is a general disposition to sell as soon as a fair offer is made, and if the market will advance a shade now it will make things quite lively. If the crop of this county could go off at an average of 8 cents it would put over $390,000 to work paying debts and greasing the wheels of commerce, as the crop will amount to 48,000,000 pounds or over.—[Flemingsburg Times-Democrat.]

Pass the Bill; That Will End the Nefarious Business.

The bill now before the Legislature making gambling a felony, should be passed, and strictly enforced. That is, so far as running gambling halls and playing faro and other games with cards are concerned. During the last sitting of the grand jury here, there were seven indictments found against gambling houses, and thirty-three against men and boys participating in the games—to say nothing of a score or more youths down on their faces, who barely escaped indictment. Seven young sports of Rudles Mills were fined. The regular quota at Millersburg, Flat Rock, North Middle-town, Clintontown and other places escaped, from some cause.

But gambling exists in all those places, all the same—and in fact, in every haunt and haunter in the land. At least one third of the young men at large are gamblers—wasting their health, money and time in the profitless business of getting nightly robbed by the older and shrewder ones, the "sharks" of the business. Talk about whisky being the devil, gambling is two devils. A young man can be reformed from making an ass and a drunkard of himself, but you cannot show one out of a million who has forsaken the poisonous infatuation of poker! Point to a single one in the State, will you?—Bourbon News.

AT GARFIELD'S TOMB.

THE ELEGANT BRONZE CASKET
RUSTLING AWAY WITH TIME.

The Remains Transferred to an Elaborate Sarcophagus; a small Embulbishment of the Life of its Precious Ashes—The Last Office Forever—Washington News.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 8.—When the remains of the late President James A. Garfield were placed in the vault at Lakewood cemetery on October 6, 1881, they were encased in an elegant bronze casket which was at that time supposed to be proof against the ravages of time. This has proved to be a mistake. The casket has been exposed to the open air and has marked traces of decay upon the beautiful burial case and some months ago it was decided by the widow and family of the late president to have the remains transferred to a coffin that, through its unmistakable stability, would set at rest all fears as to the preservation of the ashes of the dead president.

Hagan & Son, manufacturers, were given the contract to furnish the new coffin or sarcophagus, which arrived at their workshop yesterday. It is perhaps the most durable casket ever constructed, and is made of solid oak. The top of the lid is covered with a large, elegantly carved lion's foot, serving as supports for the heavy frame, and the sides are strong in struts, while are also decorated with gold leaf.

On the lid is placed with the inscription: "Garfield, 1831," in bold relief, the background being an artistic combination of lichens, pavonines, lilies and our leaves, all being signs of decay. The lid is designed to be closed by a lock.

It required a month's time for the engraver to make this study. The new coffin was taken to the cemetery, where, besides the remains of the president, were assembled James R. Garfield, wife of the president, and half a dozen newspaper men, no others being allowed within the gates.

It was at first intended to open the coffin in which the president lay so long, and the president's wife declared that she would not have this done, preferring not to disturb the tranquil repose of her dead father. Signs of decay, however, are perceptible and it is probable that not many months will be required to complete the return of dust to dust.

The transfer was made without incident, and about 10 o'clock a. m. the lid of the sarcophagus was screwed down, thus shutting out from view forever all that remained of the dead honored man.

Committee Causes.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—There was a general meeting of the same committee on "rites" during which the resolution of Mr. T. to consider nominations in open session of Mr. House to require on ayo and to vote on the same to adjourn, was laid over, and Mr. Morgan, to take a recess of the Senate each afternoon, from 2 to 3 o'clock, were considered.

Discussion of the Platt resolution took place, and its author spoke at length in favor of the resolution, and it was voted that all of the resolutions should be reported separately. This is believed, will terminate the agitation of open debate upon nominations of open debate upon nominations of House, at least for a while.

It is not to be expected, however, that there will be no considerable discussion over the matter in open session of the Senate next week.

The Letter Carriers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The representative letter carriers from different parts of the country, who have been here for some time working for the adoption of a bill to regulate their work, and to affect their class of employes, express the opinion that an executive or departmental order will be promulgated to meet their wishes, and that further legislation will be unnecessary. They represent that the bill, introduced by Mr. T. and a resolution from the attorney general, to whom the subject has been referred, declaring that letter carriers come within the scope of the present eight hour law.

THE CROWL CASE.

The Wife of the Accused Gives Her Version of the Story.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Feb. 8.—The wife of Edward Crowl, the Cleveland man accused of forgery, stated that she did not believe her husband was guilty of forgery in the sense of the law, but that he was guilty of the two fires. Edward Crowl, then working in a wholesale drug store was called upon to act as sole trustee to a large estate left to his mother by his father's death. Mrs. Crowl, however, said that when her mother was given her name to the mother's name, he speculated considerably and lost his own money and part of his mother's.

The story is that he was followed to Holland by his mother, and in the spring of 1864, Mrs. Crowl's health was so feeble that her physician recommended a change of air. She and her husband went to Holland and from there to British Guiana and back to this country. There was a hundred years then there.

She received a letter only once during the hundred years, and that was from her husband's people announcing the winning of a suit against a bank.

Hinders' Horrible Fate.

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 8.—Thursday, John Hinders, living at Valley Grove, ten miles west of the city, was hunting up the Ohio river, when he went into the woods to hunt. Not returning at dark his friends became alarmed, and a search party was organized, and his body was frozen to the ground. It had been frozen solid through the body, and his hands were almost severed from his body. His face, after which he had fallen till frozen stiff.

He Didn't Go to Canada.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—John McMahon, who about two years ago, leaving a distinguished record in the Ohio bar, became an collector of revenue of Hoboken, and who was recently captured in New York city, was sentenced by Judge McGill, of Jersey City, to five years in state prison, the full extent of the law.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The New York Star has leased the building on the northwest corner of Broadway and Park Avenue and will give there as soon as possible. The new quarters are spacious and convenient and will give the Star ample facilities for handling a rapidly growing circulation.

THE HUNTINGDON ROBBERY.

Fifteen Hundred Dollars of the Stolen Money Recovered.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Feb. 8.—Part of the amount of money stolen from Thomas Westrock, train dispatcher on the Pennsylvania railroad, in this city, on Monday last, has been recovered. The money, amounting to $1,000, was taken during the night, and a gate on his premises near the rear door of his dwelling. The robbery was bold, one, the thieves taving caused Mrs. Westrock to leave her house on the pretense that her sister was ill.

While she was gone the thieves broke into the house and secured $2,500 which was locked up in a safe. This safe had been broken into on the same and a few days ago, upon a clue of one of the thieves who, to avoid suspicion, restored the amount in his possession, which was about $1,000. The amount $1,000 is believed to have been obtained from the safe by five other persons who assisted in the robbery. The detectives expect to recover this and arrest the thieves to-morrow.

THE OAKDALE TRAGEDY.

The Dead Taylor buys From Dayton, Ohio—The Mystery.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 8.—The remains of the two men who died near Oakdale Junction under the supposition that they were burglars were identified as the bodies of George and Frank Taylor, of Dayton, Tenn. They were brothers, a brother and his son-in-law and the bodies were recovered back to their former home. The most intense excitement prevails over the killing, and the three members of the party which they were placed under bonds on the evidence of the coroner.

It is not clear that the dead men were the parties sought, and grave apprehension is felt that they were innocent victims. The Taylor's were well known with them when they were killed, but no trace of them since and no trace of him can be found.

The Taylors left Dayton, Ohio, to visit Chattanooga.

PROGRESSIVE AUGUSTA.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 8.—E. H. Coates & Co., of Atlanta, have determined to close the business of the city, and have been engaged in the removal of their property to the bank of the Augusta canal, and have closed the contract with the city for water power. The work will be commenced on the ground in a few weeks, and the machinery will be removed to the new plant there.

The new plant will be in operation in six months. Coates & Co. are to pay the bill and cheap water power and cheap steam.

This will make the fifth year here at Augusta well, even during the depression in cotton and cotton spinning.

An Arizona Story.

PRESCOTT, Ariz., Feb. 8.—Dennis W. Dida, was hanged in the presence of nearly 1,000 people, for the murder of Deputy Sheriff J. M. Murphy, December 29 last. He was a well known and popular man. Dida remained silent to the last and refused to meet a minister. He murdered a man named Jenkins in this county and a negro in Texas, but was un-preserved of other misdeeds.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 8.—The American Rural Home of the city has special room for the aged, and recent reports indicate that the pines are well protected, and the snow and in good condition for a large crop, so far as that question is concerned. It is, however, reported that thousands of acres of land when laid will be allowed to lie low the summer to correct frostiness and wetness.
